

Providing support, services, and hope since 1960.

For 65 years, we've overcome challenges and celebrated breakthroughs. Always learning and moving forward. Always Embracing Tomorrow.

In July 1960, a small group of concern parents got together in a church hall in Annerley, Brisbane and set a course that would become the Cystic Fibrosis Federation of Australia. The founding member of this Federation, Cystic Fibrosis Queensland was created to fund research in the hope of finding a cure. The average life expectancy of a child born with cystic fibrosis in 1960 was less than 10 years.

Cystic Fibrosis Queensland is the peak not for profit charity advocating, and raising funds and awareness, to meet the needs of our increasing number of members. From birth, the disease attacks the sinuses, lungs, airway passages with a sticky mucus which traps infection and harbors bacteria. The endocrine system, kidneys and pancreas fail to absorb nutrients and the body struggles to regulate required saline. Less than 20 years ago, many people living with cystic fibrosis did not expect to live past their twenties.

Today, cystic fibrosis is no longer a childhood disease, and our members are living longer lives. With the average life expectancy now at 54 years, with your help and support, we can continue to strive towards lives unaffected by cystic fibrosis.

There is no cure for cystic fibrosis.

Living with a life-shortening chronic illness is financially, physically, and emotionally draining - not only for the sufferer, but also for their support network. There is no designated government funding for people living with cystic fibrosis. Our members only qualify for disability and NDIS support while awaiting organ donation, upon transplantation or sadly, when reaching the end of life.

A child is born with cystic fibrosis every four days. Be part of our future and help us rewrite the story of cystic fibrosis.
